Keywords: Revitalization, Sugar Factory Kreet Malang, Historicism.

Sugarcane production in Malang is relatively abundant. It is not offset by any means to process sugar cane into sugar. Sugar factory in Malang regency there are two sugar factory, sugar factory Kebon Agung and Kreet. But two factories is still not enough to process sugar cane into sugar, so that the remaining switch to another district. In addition, the loss of the old building character of the factory replaced with much of the original building becomes a problem to be solved.

Kreet Sugar Factory is the only Dutch colonial heritage remaining in the Malang southern region. This plant has many deficiencies that must be corrected in order to function properly. However, this plant is also still have the advantages that they can be maintained or can be developed further so much better.

Revitalization of the sugar factory Kreet Malang aims to overcome the problems that arise when these standards are based on plant design and theme of Historicism. Both of these are expected to improve the deficiencies that exist today, in order to obtain a new sugar factory area that can accommodate all the needs that are currently unmet.
