

ABSTRACT

Normaningrum, Arumi. 07210025. 2011. A Tradition of Making a Proposal with 1500-2000 Type of Goods in the Kokoda Muslim Community (The Case Among Muslim Communities of Kokoda of Manoi Sorong District, West Papua), Department of Al-ahwal Al-shakhsiyyah, Syariah Faculty of Maulana Malik Ibrahim Islamic University of Malang. Advisor: Dr. H. Roibin, S.Ag. M.HI.

---

Keywords: Tradition, a proposal, 1500-2000 Type of Goods (dowry)

Proposal Tradition is not strange anymore. However, how the implication after carrying out the tradition can be important spotlight if it is contrary to Islamic law. In other words, it is the legalization of husband and wife relationship after making a proposal on the Kokoda Muslim community. The implication are pregnancy outside marriage, escape from responsibility, barriers to marriage, a rift in the family, including children that born from this relationship have obstacle of education from parents.

The purpose of this study is to describe the views of Kokoda Muslim Communities against the tradition of making a proposal of Kokoda tribe also to find the reasons for maintaining the tradition and to know its relevance toward the practice of Contemporary Islamic Law for the People of Kokoda.

The research method uses field research and a qualitative approach. Data source are primary data source in the form of interviews with informants, the Chieftains in the Kokoda township and Kokoda community. Secondary data sources are in the form of books, research results or writings that appropriate to the themes discussed, data copy about Kokoda Tribe of population community.

The results of the study shows that the tradition of making a proposal with the 1500-2000 Type of Goods in the Kokoda Muslim community is the same as to legalize conjugal relations after the proposal. This tradition is slowly changed little by little from generation to generation therefore it doesn't mean that it can't be straightened out in line of Islamic law, but it only cannot be straightened yet due to the lack of high awareness by the public in considering social phenomena toward the impact that will be experienced by his successors.