Key Word: PAUD, Geometry

House is a good place for family and their children. Else, house is a physic factor which influences the development and the happiness of family. Parents have big influences to the children’s growth. Prophet Muhammad said in hadits: “every child was born in pure religion of Islam, the ones who made them Jewish, Christian and Persian are their parents” by Al-Aswad bin Sari”. The right of the children is stated in the Undang-Undang Number 23. It is about the children’s right that they deserve to life, grow and learn as a human being and they deserve to be protected from violence, discrimination.

In the developed countries, some effort to improve the human resources in term of nutrient, health and education become the concern of those countries since the citizen are in the very young age and even infants. The education for very young children or PAUD (Pendidikan Anak Usia Dini) in South Korea and Singapore, for instance, is already applied to all children. Another example, in Malaysia, PAUD is already applied to 70% of the children. Moreover, the bilingual problems in using China and English are already over came in the kindergarten.

Those illustrations encourage us to apply entirely the education for very young children as soon as possible in order to have high quality young generation. For that reason, PAUD is one way to apply the education for very young learners. In this final task, the writer wants to research the PAUD in Malang for Malang is an educated town.

That explanation is the reason in choosing the design of the object that is “PAUD AS A MEDIA IN IMPROVING THE CREATIVITY OF YOUNG LERNERS IN MALANG”. Design of PAUD use the topic Geometry, because Geometry is a communication device by two or three dimensions medium. In the child education, communication is the important medium to do something. Therefore, this experiment is the result of geometry function and effect from children, adolescent, adult and old. From this experiment, the researcher can map out PAUD with general and religion content. PAUD is expected to give contribution in improving the quality of young generation so that that generation could overcome any problems in the future wisely and intellectually.
