

ABSTRACT

Shofiyatul Hasanah, Diana. 2012. Correlation Between Parents Parenting Democratic Students With Attitude Creative Class VIII in The State Islamic Junior High School. Thesis. Malang : Faculty of Psychology, The State of Islamic University Maulana Malik Ibrahim Malang.

Supervisor: Dr. H. Rahmat Aziz, M.Si

Keywords: Democratic Parenting Parents, Creative Attitude

Parenting is the treatment of parents in order to meet the needs, protection, and educate the child in daily life. Children are part of parents, both present and future. In a family, parents' presence is of great significance for the development of a child's personality, because the family is the most important environment which will give effect to some aspects of child development, including social development of the child. Therefore, parents are very influential in the growth of children to be creative and potentially superior. For that parents need to understand the problems surrounding children and have the ability to guide and direct it, so the child can behave in an optimal creative. From this background there is the formulation of the problem is there any relation between democratic parenting parents with a creative attitude of students in class VIII The State Islamic Junior High School.

In this paper, the purpose is 1) determining the the level of democratic parenting parents on students in class VIII The State Islamic Junior High School. 2) determining the level of creativity in students in class VIII The State Islamic Junior High School. 3) determining the correlation between democratic parenting parents with the creativity of the students in class VIII The State Islamic Junior High School.

This study uses quantitative methods. Data collection using the method of the scale. Analysis of data using a correlation product moment. Respondents research used is students of class VIII The State Islamic Junior High School, amounting to 79 students.

Empirically based statistical analysis proved that there is a positive relationship between democratic parenting parents with a creative attitude of students as indicated by the value of correlation $r(79) = 0.247$ and $p = 0.028$ ($p < 0.05$). This suggests that there is a significant correlation between democratic parenting parents on the level of creative attitude and a positive relationship between democratic parenting style that is if a parent has increased, there was an increase in students creative attitudes and on the other hand.