The release of Local Regulation No. 3 of 2009 about The Protection of Women and Children as The Abuse Victim seems less successful in reducing the domestic abuse rate in Malang District. As noted by Integrated Service Center For The Empowerment of Women and Children (Pusat Pelayanan Terpadu Pemberdayaan Wanita dan Anak), in 2010, the domestic abuse in Malang District has reached 42 % or 220 cases, while in 2011, the case rate reduces to 26 % or 141 cases, but in 2012, the number increases again to 32 % or 162 cases. It means that the community or the member of family still commits abusive action against husband, wife or children. Therefore, the objective of research is to understand the shape, process and constraints faced by Integrated Service Center For The Empowerment of Women and Children (P2TP2A) of Malang District as the agency appointed by the local government of Malang District to deal with this issue.

Research type is qualitative study with descriptive qualitative approach. Data collection technique involves interview and documentation. The related documents are derived from Integrated Service Center For The Empowerment of Women and Children (P2TP2A) of Malang District. Data analysis technique is qualitative analysis. By this analysis technique, the author analyzes the role of Integrated Service Center For The Empowerment of Women and Children (P2TP2A) of Malang District after the release of Local Regulation No. 3 of 2009 about the protection of women and children as the abuse victim.

Result of research indicates that the role of Integrated Service Center For The Empowerment of Women and Children (P2TP2A) of Malang District involves three lines of action in dealing with domestic abuse cases. These three lines are preventive line, counseling line, and rehabilitation and integration line. Each line has been conducted by P2TP2A of Malang District. However, some constraints impede the performance of P2TP2A of Malang District such as the lack of counselor, the limited fund and too wide scope of Malang District. All these constraints have made the programs organized by Integrated Service Center For The Empowerment of Women and Children becoming less maximum.
