

ABSTRACT

Akhmad Hosairi, 10210036, 2014. Divorce on account of obeying parents' command under Islamic view (a case study in Bulangan Barat Pegantenan Pamekasan). Thesis of Al-Ahwal Al-Syakhshiyah Department, the Syariah Faculty. State Islamic of University Maulana Malik Ibrahim Malang. Supervisor: Dr. Hj. Umi Sumbulah, M.Ag

Keywords: Divorce, Parents, Islamic Law.

Divorce is an allowed deed in Islam, and is enforced through Al-qur'an. However, this action is abominated by Allah SWT because it inflicts on woman as wife. The factor also varies, like husband stringency, wife's disobedience, the lack of the understanding, and so forth. However, Divorce in Bulangan Barat Pegantenan Pamekasan has an uncommon factor since it is due to parent's intervention. Parents try to influence the husband so that the family remains broken.

The present study is aimed at examinng the factors causing parents ask their son to divorce and seeing how Islam enforces the law of a husband doing divorce for obeying parents' command at Bulangan Barat pegantenan pamekasan.

This is included into empirical research for using juridical sociological approach, while the source is primary, secondary and tertiary which in the end are collected, proceeded and analized.

It elicits a conclusion that 1) the factors causing parents ask their son to divorce his wife is on account of the tendency of Keeping self-esteem more than the family sustanibility and misunderstanding between parents and their son-in-law in terms of ethics, economic and social so that they ask their son to divorce his wife. 2) Islam sees that in that particular case, the son may obey his parents in terms of divorce for it will inflict dharar. However, in case the son do it, it remains valid.